

Indian Youth for Arts and Change programme

By - TNN | Stuti Agrawal | Updated: Sep 7, 2012, 11:15 IST

f FACEBOOK

TWITTER

PINTREST

The on-stage programme of Indian Youth for Arts and Change or IYAC, a bold mixed-media theatrical performance, was a dream come true for independent artistes of Kolkata.

It provided the perfect platform for budding photographers and artists to showcase their talent. It was also a forum for street dance groups such as Fullstop, Rubix and Master of Puppet to graduate from the street to the stage with awe-inspiring performances. Emcee Harshvardhan Bhan set the ball rolling with his sharp head-turns.

The most awaited event was a play called Aur Ek Khoj. "This play was a summary of my personal journey through the experiences I have incorporated from youngsters," said director and founder of youth group, Lok, Soumyajit Majumdar.

..... End of the article